DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 18 and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kriesel et al (USPN 6,416,495) in view of Portner et al (USPN 4,265,241). Kriesel discloses an outer housing, an expandable housing, a constant force extension spring, fill means and dispensing means. See figure 12. The expandable housing comprises a bellows structure with an accordion-like side wall, first fill vial (46), and plurality of flow control channels (66,137). Kriesel meets the claim limitations as described above but fails to include the constant force extension spring being a coiled roll of pre-stressed material that exerts a substantially constant restraining force to resist uncoiling.

Portner discloses an outer housing, an expandable bellows housing, a constant force extension spring being a coiled roll of pre-stressed material that exerts a substantially constant restraining force to resist uncoiling, and inlet and an outlet. See figure 6. The spring provides a low intensity constant force which develops a small positive pressure on the bellows.

At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious by one skilled in the art to substitute the constant force spring of Kriesel with the coiled roll spring of Portner. The motivation would have been that provides by Portner in that the spring provides a small positive pressure for long term drug delivery.

Art Unit: 3763

Claims 1-2,7,18 and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable Rey et al (USPN 6,416,495) in view of Portner. Rey discloses an outer housing, an expandable housing, a constant force extension spring, fill means and dispensing means. See figure 1. The device also includes flow control means 28. Rey meets the claim limitations but fails to include the constant force extension spring being a coiled roll of pre-stressed material that exerts a substantially constant restraining force to resist uncoiling.

Portner discloses an outer housing, an expandable bellows housing, a constant force extension spring being a coiled roll of pre-stressed material that exerts a substantially constant restraining force to resist uncoiling, and inlet and an outlet. See figure 6. The spring provides a low intensity constant force which develops a small positive pressure on the bellows.

At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious by one skilled in the art to substitute the constant force spring of Rey with the coiled roll spring of Portner. The motivation would have been that provides by Portner in that the spring provides a small positive pressure for long term drug delivery.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 12-17 and 29-31 are allowed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

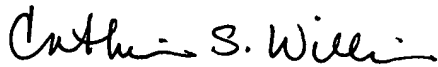

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
